Construction of Weston's Dam and Saugatuck Reservoir is topic of May 17 lecture at Weston Historical Society

Weston, CT, May 11, 2015—Continuing to focus on its Landmark Homes of Weston exhibit, the Weston Historical Society will host George S. Logan of the Aquarion Water Company on Sunday, May 17 at 2:30 p.m. for a lecture on the the planning, design and construction of the Samuel Senior Dam and the Saugatuck Reservoir.

The lecture will be held at the museum on the Coley Homestead, 104 Weston Road. The museum will be open from 1:30 p.m. to 4 p.m on Sunday for the Landmark Homes exhibit.

Mr. Logan is director of environmental management and government relations for Aquarion. He earned a Bachelor of Science degree (1991) in engineering from Trinity College, in Hartford, and a Master of Science degree (1995) in mechanical engineering from the University of Bridgeport. He has recently taken on the role of director of environmental manager and government relations. Prior to this, he was responsible for leadership in all aspects of water utility engineering. In other previous roles with Aquarion, he was responsible for supervision of the company's land survey, CAD drafting, design functions, and was in charge of purchasing.

Aquarion is the public water supply company for more than 625,000 people in 50 cities and towns across Connecticut, as well as Massachusetts and New Hampshire. It is the largest investor-owned water utility in New England.

The Landmark Homes of Weston exhibit will be on display through July 16. The exhibit will introduce visitors to the various architectural styles of residences to be found in Weston across four centuries, the people who created them, as well as some of the celebrities who have called Weston their home. A display of original architectural designs by Weston High School students, antique tools and building materials used in the construction of Weston homes also will be featured. The exhibit will be open through July 16.

The museum will be open from 1:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays, Sundays and Wednesdays.
